SENATOR STONE, "MADE IN GERMANY."

THE world war must be won by the United States as a whole and not by any political party. We must conquer by the states united and the people of one mind. Senator Stone, in his speech before the upper house of congress late yesterday afternoon, did more to hinder the national cause and the world cause than has any other American, or any alien enemy within our gates.

He did not speak in the heat of sudden passion, for his remarks had been prepared many days in advance. A copy of his address had been sent to the Bonanza nearly a week ago under the seal of secrecy and last evening there came a telegraphed amendment, in which certain phrases were either elided or the verbiage changed. There might have been some excuse if the senator had risen from his seat in the heat of passion and inveighed against the Republican party and certain of its most prominent members, letting himself become swayed by his own oratory, but this was not the case. It was a cunningly wrought out and carefully considered document and doubtless Senator Stone was not alone in its compilation, at least not without advisers.

By this time the document has doubtless been copied in all the principal newspapers in Germany, with comments such as can be imagined, the purport of which is that the United States is a house divided against itself and cannot stand. The Stone speech has done more to awaken partisanship, which must be kept in abeyance in order to win the war, than any other single act could have accomplished.

The Bonanza does not for a moment desire to be considered a champion of Colonel Roosevelt, for this paper did not follow him out of the ranks of the Republican party when "progressiveness" became an issue, but it has never questioned his integrity, nor doubted his patriotism. The colonel has sent his sons to the battlefield and his daughter her husband. He, himself, has been frequently called into consultation by the president on war measures. It was his ambition to raise a division and himself go to the battle front, but the war department and congress did not deem such an individual act one of prudence at a time when personalities must lose themselves in the general cause.

Senator Stone was ill advised when he charged other Republicans with being agents of the kaiser. He was not merely ill advised, but was mendacious. As a tool of militarism he may not have known that he was being used to advance the propaganda, but that is giving him the benefit of the doubt. It does not sit well upon the stomach of all loyal Republicans, and all Republicans are loyal, to swallow such cunningly devised canards. The Republican party is back of the administration. We who twice worked against and twice voted against the present occupant of the chief executive's chair are today holding up the hands of OUR president, for in them is reposed the greatest authority ever conferred upon an American, and it is authority that is backed by our voices, our muscle, our energy, our valor, our powers of doing, of braving, of conserving and of in every way possible lending ourselves to the common cause.

There will be time after the war to revert to partisanship, but "Stones" may not be thrown at present, unless it be to throw them out. Note the manner in which the members of the senate and house are casting their votes on all war measures. Party lines have been obliterated for the time and in the interest of the common cause. It is little wonder that even the members of Senator Stone's own party kept him as long as possible from the floor, for it was known in advance what would be the nature of his address.

A LITTLE LATE IN THE DAY.

ALL of a sudden Governor Boyle has awakened to a realization that it is costing the people of the state of Nevada, under his administration, entirely too much to be governed, the per capita cost being $12.78 per annum. This is the record for the United States. Even California, it with the prodigality of road building and other great public movements, the cost of which runs into the many millions annually, worries along at $11.14 per head. The governor thinks he can save money by digging into the public coffers with both hands to pay solons from far and near for sitting in special session. That would be throwing good money after bad. If economy is needed, means to that end should have been taken at the latest regular session. The bills that the governor signed or permitted to become laws through lapse of time are what get into the coin purse of the taxpayer. Besides, would a legislature which was so lavish in regular session be likely to be less so when specially convoked?

NEVADA SHOULD BE GRATEFUL.

WE, THE people of the United States, are experiencing abnormal conditions, such as never before faced the country, says the Manhattan Magnet. The French and Indian wars were mere skirmishes in the wilderness. At the time of the Revolution there were not enough people in this country to populate an eastern metropolis today. The war of 1812 was somewhat serious for a few months, but it was gotten under control in much the same fashion as a modern fire department extinguishes a blaze in a class A building. The war against Mexico was simply an excursion on the part of our troops. The Civil war was a terrible ordeal, one in which hundreds of thousands of people were killed or maimed, but it was not a world cataclysm, dreadful though it was. The Hispano-American war was not worthy the name. Now is the day when darkness has descended upon the face of the globe, only lurid flame to pierce the shadows. We of Nevada have so much to be grateful for that we are not in the devastated zones. We open our purse strings with willingness, even eagerness. We see our boys depart, one by one, and send them away with a smile and a cheer. We economize that the brave lads over there may not be lacking in comforts, yet we suffer little and we should be thankful to the God of Battles that our mining camps in the hills and our far-spread, fertile valleys are scenes of peace and comparative plenty. Truly it is good for us to be here.

LET THE WILLIES DO IT.

Editor Bonanza, Sir: Will you, through your paper, support a movement that began in Caliente, to have Nevada as a state undertake to rebuild a city in France, by having a committee in each county canvass for voluntary contributions?

"MRS. M."

NO, DEAR madame. Let the two Willies do it. One of them ruthlessly destroyed the city in question, and by all the gods and demons in Caliente, or any other hot place, he will rebuild it. We need every cent we have got to lambast him to the point where he will be compelled to restore so far as in his power the wilderness that he has created. He can not give back the blood that he has shed nor restore the virtue that he has ravished, but he can be made to re-erect the fallen walls, restore the broken arches and make as were anew the chambers desolate and portals foul.

He must and will do all of this. A United America, a United Civilization, a United Democracy say so, and what they say goes. And, again as to your scheme. Don't you realize that you are doing the bidding of Willie Hearst, the agent, as well as of Willie Hohenzollern, the principal, although you are doubtless doing it innocently? Bless your dear little soul which bleeds for suffering France! The heart of the Bonanza, for it really has a heart, also bleeds, and our eyes see red through the blood. France will be rebuilt, but it will be at the hands of its destroyers, and what money we give will be to bring about this consummation. Tell Willie Hearst and Willie Hohenzollern that you have decided to not act in their behalf, but will devote your time, talent and money to furthering the ends of the Red Cross society, for every sweater you knit for our soldiers brings another bead of sweat to the brow of Willie; in fact, to the brows of each.

PUNISHMENT METED OUT TO DETECTIVE SCHOOL DIRECTOR LIKELY IN DUTCH

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—William C. Hamilton, head of a detective agency of that name, was sentenced yesterday to serve not less than four years in prison as penalty for his conviction of detaining soldiers and sailors over their furloughs and then collecting $30 for each from the government for their surrender. For the same offense two of his employees are now serving terms of five years each.

WHERE SOLDIERS RECREATE.

(By Associated Press.)

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 22.—Two comfortably equipped clubs where any enlisted men serving with the colors may find a welcome are now maintained in this vicinity as a part of the war camp community recreation service. The newest one is at San Pedro, Cal., near which place a large number of soldiers and sailors are stationed. Its attractions include a library, lounging and music rooms, billiard and pool tables and a lunch counter. In the short time the club has been open it has been visited daily by between 200 and 300 men in the olive drab of the army or of the blue of the navy.

MANGANESE ORES FOUND IN NEVADA

The demand for manganese ore at the present time is due to its use in making steel. At the present time much of the manganese ore used has to be imported from Brazil, therefore any local sources that can be developed will decrease the amount that will have to be imported and thus release shipping for other work. The Mackay School of Mines desires to secure for the government all available information regarding the manganese resources of Nevada, and invites prospectors or others to send in samples of known or supposed manganese ore. Tests and assays will be made at the school, free, on any such samples from this state. High grade ore assaying over 40 per cent manganese and less than 12 per cent silica is especially desired. At the present time such an ore is worth about $36 per ton. The prices vary with the grade, for example, a 48 per cent ore is worth $57 per ton. In case of large deposits of lower grade ore the metallurgy department will make tests to endeavor to find, if possible, some method of concentrating the ore to a higher grade, which would be of commercial value.

Manganese ores are generally black in color and any black ore should be tested unless it is recognized as not being a manganese ore. The two common rocks which are widely distributed in this state and possess any value for manganese are volcanic glass and basalt. The chief manganese minerals are as follows:

Braunite is a brownish black to steel gray mineral with a sub-metallic luster and brownish black streak and is quite hard, but brittle. Pyrolusite, sometimes called black oxide of manganese, contains 63.2 per cent manganese when pure, is soft and will usually rub off on the fingers, black in color and streak, dull to metallic luster.

Manganite contains 62.4 per cent manganese when pure and generally occurs in short prismatic crystals. It has a sub-metallic luster steel gray to iron black color, reddish brown to black streak, and is somewhat softer than psilomelane.

Psilomelane, sometimes called black hematite, commonly occurs as a massive black mineral, dull to sub-metallic luster, iron black to dark gray color and is quite hard.

Manganese ores have been reported from various parts of Nevada and some shipments of high grade ore have been made.
